Hospital closing one unit

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

St. Elizabeth Medical Center will close a nursing unit at the end of the month, eliminating the need for about 21 nurses and related support jobs.

Ted Eilerman, president and CEO of SEMC, said Tuesday that a continuing downward trend in the use rate and length of stay over the last five years has forced the hospital to evaluate its internal operations and implement cost-savings strategies.

"The hard reality is this: We must down-size in order to manage costs and be able to continue to offer quality care for our patients," Eilerman said.

He said the Fifth Floor, which has about 35 beds, will be closed by Oct. 1. A registered nurse said that about 21 nursing jobs will be eliminated. Related support services, such as housekeeping and maintenance, will also be affected, Eilerman said.

He said he could not yet determine specifically how many jobs will be cut.

"Because of a declining use rate, length of stay and new technology, the demand for acute care is declining," Eilerman said, adding that the demand for outpatient services continues to increase.

He said the hospital's use rate, a measurement of days of care provided per 1,000 population, has changed dramatically in the past five years.

While the use rate was 650 days per 1,000 in 1989, that number was cut by more than 50 percent to 320 days per 1,000 in 1993.

"And we do not expect the trend to change dramatically. We think it will continue to slide and reach 250 days per 1,000 in the next few years," Eilerman said.

Firefighters salvage church, contents

A Granite City firefighter places the Tele-Squirt nozzle through a second-story window at the First Presbyterian Church during Wednesday afternoon's fire.

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Quick and strategic work by Granite City firefighters saved a nearly 80-year-old church in the downtown area from being completely ravaged by fire Wednesday afternoon.

And after extinguishing the blaze, firefighters formed a "bucket line" to salvage hymnals, Bibles and other books.

"These guys did an exemplary job," said Fire Chief Keith Talley.

Flames shot through a portion of the roof of the First Presbyterian Church, on Delmar Avenue at 22nd Street, at about 12:30 p.m. Wednesday.

But firefighters managed to limit fire damage to a minimum. Water damage to the three-story brick and stone building was extensive.

An anonymous donor contributed plastic drop cloths to protect pews and the altar from water that continued to drizzle from the rafters of the church long after the fire was extinguished.

Paster Lewis Trotter and church members hustled in and out of the building salvaging pictures, papers and other irreplaceable valuables.

But a 5-foot-by-2-foot hole appeared in the 30-foot high ceiling of the sanctuary. Numerous cracks formed in the wet plaster and the ceiling appeared to bow under the weight of the water that saturated it.

The fire at the church apparently began in a loft holding pipe organs on the east side of the building.

Smoke first began to emerge

from vents in the roof of the sanctuary portion of the building.

Firefighters approached the blaze from the roof of an adjacent building, vented the roof and then doused the flames with water from inside. The outside temperature at the time hovered near 100 degrees.

Two pumper trucks and the TeleSquirt apparatus from the Granite City Fire Department battled the blaze while a TeleSquirt from the U.S. Army Fire Department of the Price Support Center stood by in case it was needed.

Workers from Quad City Roofing Co. had just finished putting new shingles on the roof of the sanctuary portion of the building this week.

They were working on a flat roof on an adjacent portion of the church when the fire broke out, Trotter said.

Jack DeCoursey, a church member who was on the scene, said services last Sunday were conducted in the church's fellowship hall because roofing work had knocked down plaster in the sanctuary.

Talley said investigators were looking into the cause of the fire. A large portion of the new roof will have to be replaced, fire officials said.

Church members were planning to meet Wednesday night to decide if services would be conducted Sunday, Trotter said.

Drug injections to be used County puts a halt to gassing of stray dogs

Drug injection will replace the gas chamber at the Madison County pound after some officials expressed horror at the time it took for gassed dogs to die. The County Board's Animal Control Committee voted 2-0 Tuesday to halt the use of carbon dioxide poisoning on stray dogs at the Madison County Animal Control facility.

The move was applauded by Humane Society activists.

"Most of us involved in the Animal Control Department never knew what actually went on on kill days because the gas chamber had a solid door and you couldn't see what the dogs were going through inside," Animal Control Committee Chairman Nick Hamilos of Edwardsville said. "Now it has a glass panel and you can see what happens on kill days if you have the stomach for it. There are 10 or 15 dogs in there gasping for air for 10 or 11 minutes before they finally die. It's unbearable to watch."

Each Tuesday and Friday, Animal Control officials kill dogs that owners do not claim and aren't adopted.

Animal Control Director Dr. David Hall said the gas chamber would probably be shut down and replaced by lethal injections Monday. The committee's decision does not require full County Board approval.

The dogs will be killed in much the same way cats are. The dogs will be sedated and then injected with a drug that stops the heart almost instantly, officials said.

The department killed 2,450 dogs and 1,888 cats in 1993, county records show. Dogs and cats are usually killed after five days in the pound.

Hamilos, who witnessed his first gassing at the pound Tuesday morning, said the spectacle reminded him of the Dachau concentration camp run by the Nazis in World War II, where he was stationed in the last days of the war.

"I could just see them herding the dogs in there like human beings were herded into the chambers at Dachau. It was too much," Hamilos said.

Committee member Don Rea of Pontoon Beach also said watching the dogs die in the gas chamber sickened him.

"I have a real problem with how the dogs were put down because of the considerable length of time between when the dogs were being put in the chamber and when they actually quit moving. It took 11 minutes," Rea said.

Gassing dogs costs about $800 a year. Hall estimated killing dogs by injection would cost five times as much, about $4,500 a year.

"We feel like it would be money well spent," Hall said.

Band director pleads guilty

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Even though he pleaded guilty last week to a charge of stealing band money saved by Carlyle High School students for a trip, second-year Granite City High School Band Director Ray Rickert told members of the Band Parents organization Tuesday night that they have no need to worry.

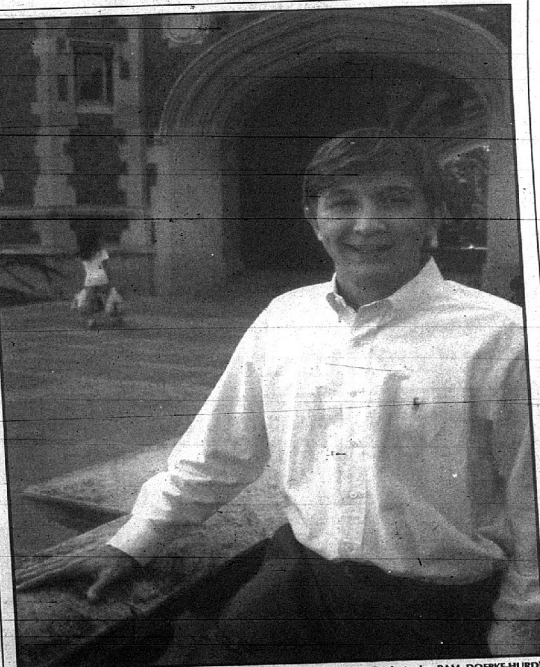

"The only thing I am guilty of is poor record-keeping. I didn't take a dime that belonged to any kid," Rickert said.

In a negotiated plea agreement entered last week in Clinton County Circuit Court, Rickert, 28, a Highland resident, was fined $1,000 and ordered to make restitution of $3,924 prosecutors said he took from Carlyle High School students' travel accounts two years ago.

Rickert said he pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge to avoid hefty legal fees and the threat of prosecution on a felony charge of official misconduct.

A felony conviction could have resulted in the loss of Rickert's teaching certification.

News in review

News in review provides a summary of some of the past week's stories. This column is designed for out-of-town readers who do not receive the Sunday and Wednesday Press-Record/Journals.

Rosenburg ruling reversed

An appellate court panel has ruled that a Granite City police officer was unjustly denied his right to appeal a reprimand issued in 1989 — even though the reprimand is no longer in the officer's personnel file.

In an order filed Sept. 6, a Fifth District Appellate Court panel ruled that Circuit Judge Jan Fiss erred in dismissing the matter. The panel also said Granite City police Sgt. David Rosenberg is entitled to a hearing before the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners on an oral reprimand issued in September 1989 by then-Chief Don Knight — even though the reprimand has long since disappeared from Rosenberg's personnel file.

The appellate court remanded the matter to Fiss, who has ordered a hearing before the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners. Rosenberg was reprimanded for allegedly refusing to follow an order to arrest an individual.

Nearly naked man in City Hall

Police and witnesses said a nearly naked man was arrested in City Hall Thursday afternoon.

"He wasn't really naked. He had on one sock, a sweater and a stocking cap," said Ed Broyles, a city employee.

"He had curlers in his hair and the stocking cap had toothbrushes sticking out of it," Broyles said.

The man also carried a coffee cup, razor blades and other hygiene items in a bundle under his sweater, Broyles said.

The man was arrested without incident.

City loses suit over restrictions

Granite City officials apparently will not be able to place any restrictions on a convenience and liquor store in a residentially-zoned neighborhood.

On Thursday, Madison County Associate Judge Ellar Duff issued an order enjoining the city from placing restrictions on Ice House Liquors, 2446 Washington Ave.

While a business license application states that the store will close by 10 p.m. or 11 p.m., the owners have expanded the hours and, under the conditions of the ruling, can legally keep the store open 24 hours a day, if they wish.

Raging fire 'suspicious'

Investigators say a fire that burned a vacant East Granite house completely to the ground Wednesday night is suspicious in nature.

The fire at 2655 E. 24th St. began at about 9:15 p.m. Wednesday. In addition to burning the one-story frame building to the ground, heat and flames from the blaze melted the vinyl siding on a home on one side of the house and damaged a fence around a yard on the other side.

Fire Chief Keith Talley said there was no gas or electrical service to the house. But because the roof of the house caved in, he said, no evidence was collected.

Hospital weighs cost-cutting plan

A decline in utilization of St. Elizabeth Medical Center has prompted hospital officials to study cost-cutting measures — possibly including shutting down an entire floor.

An SEMC spokesperson said Monday that administration, management and staff are studying the hospital's internal operations to develop a plan to increase efficiency.

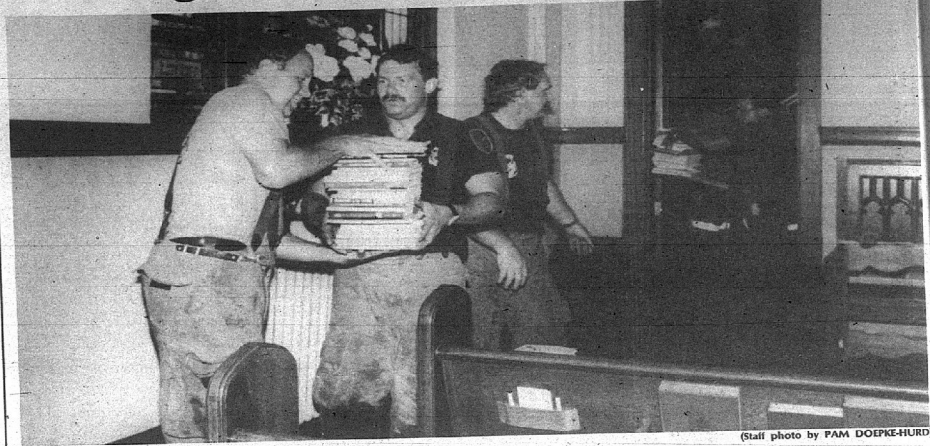

Realty disclosure mandated

The Illinois Residential Real Property Disclosure Act, which goes into effect Oct. 1, requires owners of one to four residential units — including condominiums and cooperatives — to complete a form disclosing known material defects in the property. The form must be provided to the prospective buyer before the sale, and signed by both the buyer and the seller.

New sign law adopted

City and business leaders are hoping a new law regulating signs in Granite city will eliminate unsightly clutter in business districts and enhance the effectiveness of advertisement there. Last week, the Granite City Council voted 9-6 to adopt an ordinance placing restrictions on the number, size and location of most signs in the city, including business signs, billboards and political advertisements.

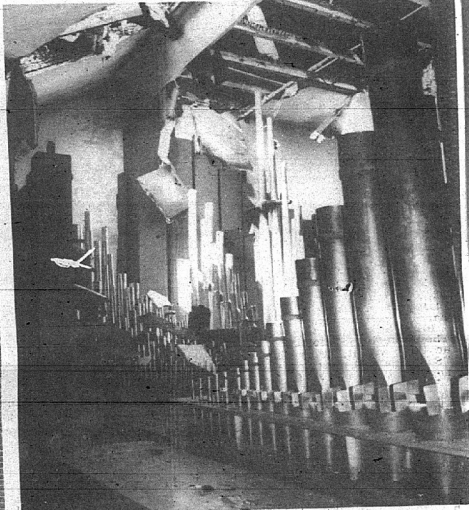

Damaged, but still standing...

Saviors — Granite City firefighters form a book brigade to save the books in the pastor's study from any more water damage during Wednesday's fire at the First Presbyterian Church.

Roofers who were working on replacing the church's roof when the fire started evacuate the burning structure Wednesday afternoon.

The church's 80-year-old pipe organ suffered the most damage as a result of the fire.

About a month ago, Madis and Barb Niedringhaus decided to get more help in the Granite City area. With the help of many volunteers, they are currently renovating the property.

All that is left to renovate the property is the 800 Niedringhaus. The property is available to area persons.

However, funds for renovation are not available, and Madis and Barb hope to attract additional donations through the project.

"This thing is more than I ever thought of," Madis said. "I just have serious investors."

Milton Morris, OATH (Organization of Handicapped) in Granite City, owned the building.

Niedringhaus planned to use it for handicapped people. But "Granite City wouldn't let anything with it."

"So, some of it is now it needs a lot of work," Madis said.

The building, to the early 1900s, is being renovated to be accessible. Those that much of the building will be provided by Morris said the Nelson of ADA.

Pontoon officials promise help with drainage problem

By Hilley Schulte
Staff writer

A water drainage problem has returned on Perigen Lane in Pontoon Beach, and village officials say a solution will come soon.

Joe W. Jones of Pontoon Beach attended a regular village board of trustees meeting Tuesday evening to inquire about drainage at the subdivision on Perigen Lane where he lives.

Jones said he is concerned about some water which has backed up behind his house and has nowhere to drain. Apparently when the land was developed, the natural run-off of water was blocked.

According to Jones, the backed-up water is stagnant. "I don't like to complain. I'm just concerned about my property and that the water doesn't come into my home," said Jones.

Jones said he has spoken to Mayor Glen Wilson and City Clerk Lou Whitsell, and he thought the village board should be aware of the problem. Board members said it is aware of the problem, as it has come up before.

Ed Perigen owns the subdivision. Whitsell said that when Perigen began building the house, "he promised that if we (the village) put a culvert under Highway 162, he would bring drainage up to that point from his subdivision."

Whitsell noted that the culvert project cost the village about $10,000.

Perigen, who also owns Perigen Pools on Highway 162, denied Wednesday morning that he ever promised to drain the subdivision.

"All these homeowners are griping at me because the village is saying that I contracted to drain that," he said. "I did not contract with them but to put one drain under the road in front of my business, and I did that."

Whitsell said that currently city engineers are looking for answers to the problem. However, the city can't do anything to the land itself because Perigen owns it.

"Will you see that something is done though?" asked Jones. Board members all answered yes.

In other public comments, Susan Schulte of Pontoon Beach asked about a trailer at Gateway Stables owned by Kelly Arnold. The trailer is on the property against village zoning laws.

In late July the village asked Arnold to remove the trailer, and she was cited for not doing so.

Schulte said, "She's got chickens running loose. She's got her dirt up higher, so she's got my mom flooded out. I was just wondering whether anything has been done." Schulte's mother, Evelyn Ringering, lives next to Gateway Stables.

At the last regular meeting, the board learned that it could revoke Arnold's business license for disobeying zoning laws. Trustee Mike Macke agreed to speak with Arnold before the village revoked the license.

However, Macke was not present at Tuesday's meeting, and board members were unsure of the results of Macke and Arnold's conversation.

"Something's got to be done. We can't let some people get away with these things and not others. I move we turn the matter over to our attorney," said Trustee Bob Vincent.

A second was made on the motion, and the board approved it. Keith Jensen is the village attorney.

Wednesday morning Arnold said Macke did speak with her last week.

She said, "He said he believes that can be resolved, but he doesn't want this to be a 'dumping ground' for trailers. Well, this is not a dumping ground. I placed the trailer there because I had nowhere else to put it, but it is not set up, and it's not permanent."

Arnold said the village summoned her to court Oct. 1.

Arnold thinks the issue could be resolved without going to court, but "they're busy telling me no, no, no, no that they won't even let me go through the process."

She said she believes she is being harassed by Ringering.

"It's just one thing after another. This is harassment, and they're (the village) helping her do it. That's not fair. She's (Ringering) harassed me for five years, well longer than that. She told me that I'd never own this property," she said.

Arnold's attorney, Irv Slate, said Arnold doesn't want to battle this out in court, but only wants to run her business.

He said, "Kelly doesn't have the time or inclination to do battle. She wants to run a good, wholesome business, and that's what she's got."

'Protect yourself' seminars to be offered

Beginning on Sept. 16, The BANK will host a series of Protect Yourself seminars. The seminars will start at 1:30 p.m. at the main bank in the lower meeting room.

The first seminar, presented by Edwardsville Police Chief Ben Dickmann and guests from Ameritech, will feature some valuable information about protecting yourself against telemarketing scams.

The second seminar will be held on Oct. 14. The Edwardsville Police Department will again offer some important pointers on protecting yourself while shopping, driving, walking, wherever you go.

The final seminar, scheduled for Nov. 18, will focus on home safety and burglary prevention. The information will be very valuable as the holidays approach.

Each seminar is free and open to the general public. For additional information or to place a reservation, call Kathy Dickinson, Emerald Plus Club Coordinator, at 656-0057, ext. 202.

A home for the disabled

Volunteers sought for building renovation

By Hilley Schulte
Staff writer

About a month ago, George Mathis and Barbara Arnold set out to get more handicapped housing in the Granite City area. With the help of Milton Morris, they apparently have found it.

All that is left to do now is renovate the property, located at 900 Niedringhaus, and 29 additional rooms will be available to area handicapped persons.

However, funds for the renovation are not readily available, and Mathis and Arnold hope to attain them through donations.

"This thing is taking off faster than I ever thought it would. Now, we just have to find some serious investors," Mathis said.

Milton Morris, who began the OATH (Organization for the Advancement of the Handicapped) in Madison, has owned the building on Niedringhaus for some time and planned to use it for handicapped people.

But "Granite City threw a fit. They wouldn't let me do anything with it," Morris said. "So, some of it deteriorated, and now it needs a new roof."

The building, which dates back to the early 1900s, also needs to be renovated to be handicapped accessible. Those involved hope that much of the renovation can be provided by volunteers.

Morris said that Richard Nelson of ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act) Associates Inc. will visit the building this weekend to offer advice on its renovation.

The structure was originally built to house immigrants working for Granite City Steel. It is a three-story building, and "the walls are at least 18 inches thick. So, it is a sturdy building," said Morris.

"The building will have an inside elevator going to the second and third floors, and an outside elevator going to the first and second floors. Morris hopes to convert part of the downstairs into a recreation room."

There are three business fronts on the first floor; one contains a cabinet business. A man who owns a trucking company next door to the building hopes to open a restaurant in one of them.

"That would be nice. Everybody that lives there would also have a place to eat," Morris said.

Morris said that altogether about $100,000 will be spent on renovations. He said the 708 Board and the state can probably help, but much of it will have to come from donations from individuals and businesses.

Anyone interested in making a donation can reach Morris at 981-8008. "Even a $10 donation could put this thing over the edge," said Mathis.

Anyone interested in living in the building when the renovation is completed should also contact Morris. "We need a list of people who need a place to live," said Morris.

Morris emphasized that point: "The main thing we have to do now is find out how many people in the Tri-City live in a wheelchair."

When the building is finished, there will be efficiency and two- and three-bedroom apartments available, each equipped with a gas heater. There will probably also be washers and dryers available.

Arnold said that the cost of rent has not yet been determined, but she does plan to get HUD Housing and Urban Development involved to decrease the cost of rent.

Finally, Mathis said, "If they (interested people) are in the situation where they need housing and want to live with other handicapped people, they can. It will probably be cheaper than anywhere they've lived before. There will be a lot of cleaning and a lot of work, but with a little elbow grease, we'll get this thing done."

Park District remembered

TO THE EDITOR:
I would like to thank my friends and co-workers, past and present, whom I have heard from regarding my retirement from the Granite City Park District.

I received many gifts, cards and personal greetings and truly appreciate them all. Many were from people I least expected to respond and it is physically impossible to answer them all.

I never dreamed the day Mr. Harold Brown came to our home and asked me to fill in at the Marshall School Recreation Program that I would be employed for 33 years by the Park District. Those years were very rewarding for me. Watching the Park District grow and being a part of it made me proud. The friendships I made and the experiences I had were priceless. I worked with many wonderful people through the years and have watched many of the teenagers become very successful adults.

I always said I could retire with a satisfied feeling if we could get a tree program and a new swimming pool. Mr. Bill Menck has one of the greatest tree memorial programs anywhere and the new pool opened the day after I retired. So, what a way to go.

Many of my co-workers jokingly said that I should write a book about happenings at the park. But, I told them it would be too lengthy, even though a best seller in granite city. Things happened there that were unbelievable—funny and sad. All past employees would understand what I had and what I was a part of those things. What wonderful memories we have!

Again, I thank my friends for their kindness. You'll never know how I appreciate hearing from you.

Constitution to be celebrated

TO THE EDITOR:
Constitution Week is Sept. 17-23.

There are 27 Amendments to the Constitution of the United States. Three are directly related to the rights of citizens to vote, proving that the oldest constitution in active use today remains the working basis for our government.

When voting, the Drusilla Andrews Chapter of the American Revolution suggests you use Constitution Week, Sept. 17-23, to study the issues and candidates, resolving to be a citizen who votes responsibly.

Incumbents abuse advantage

TO THE EDITOR:
Recently a letter writer credited U.S. Rep. Richard Durbin with returning $86,437 to the treasury. Is it possible that this was prompted as a result of an embarrassment of excessive spending habits made public two years ago?

Besides, according to the National Taxpayers Union, the abuse of franking is most likely to occur during an election year.

And, since career politicians receive so much free exposure from the news media, the N.T.U. feels that frank mail is nothing more than a waste of taxpayers' money.

Besides paying $33.5 million for frank mailings in 1993, taxpayers also paid for House and Senate television studios, the Senate Recording and Photographic studios have 60-nation employees, and salaries totaling over $2 million. The House has two TV studios, 10 cameramen, and 20 production people, plus four radio studios.

For more information on the subject, read "The Ruling Class" by Eric Feltman of the Heritage Foundation.

It explains how voters can have Congress but keep re-electing their congressman. The chapter titled, "The Re-election Machine" reveals how legislators say they keep in touch with voters by returning to their districts nearly every weekend.

Doing so for name and face recognition only, legislators, when back in Washington, vote along the lines of Political Action Campaign contributors.

It should be noted prior to the 1978 Travel Budget, members were limited in the number of roundtrip tickets to Washington they could put on the federal tab.

It is estimated that well over half of the congressional staff is little more than full-time campaign workers whose salaries are paid by the taxpayers. No wonder incumbents have an edge on reelection.

One such congressman who loves to wallow in "pork" spending, Richard Durbin, is mentioned on Page 1 of Kelly's book. He might be willing to autograph it for you at one of his hopefully few remaining town-hall meetings.

A nail in coffin of Constitution?

TO THE EDITOR:
The Granite City Press-Record/Journal had an article on U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello's town meeting. The crime bill was said to have taken center stage. The following is part of the article:

"Howard Lathrop of Pontoon Beach asked Costello: If these bills are so good, why does it take so much convincing? Why do you always hear that 83 percent of the people want guns banned if so many people have them?"

Costello answered that the majority of people are not in favor of a gun ban. He also said that he believes there are some weapons which should not be available, but he thinks to place limits on such weapons would come too close to gun control."

Jerry, when attending SIUE, I had taken a course on the U.S. Constitution. I had learned that our government is of the people, by the people and for the people. According to the article that was written, you said that the majority of the people did not want a gun ban. So why did so many congressmen and senators, including yourself, vote for the crime bill, which had a gun ban hidden inside?

Why would they not allow a vote to be taken only on the gun ban itself?

I had learned wrong at SIUE. It should have been: Government of the government, by the government and for the government.

You and the other congressmen and senators have just driven me into the coffin of the Bill of Rights and the U.S. Constitution. Thank you.

Nation's troubles can be healed

TO THE EDITOR:
It doesn't take a rocket scientist to realize that our nation is in trouble.

Our problems range from massive over-spending by our government to crime in our streets. Our children are carrying guns to school and are stealing and murdering so that they can support their drug habits.

There is a breakdown in the family structure. We are no longer a society with a father and mother but we are now a family consisting of one parent trying to play the role of both father and mother to the best of his/her ability.

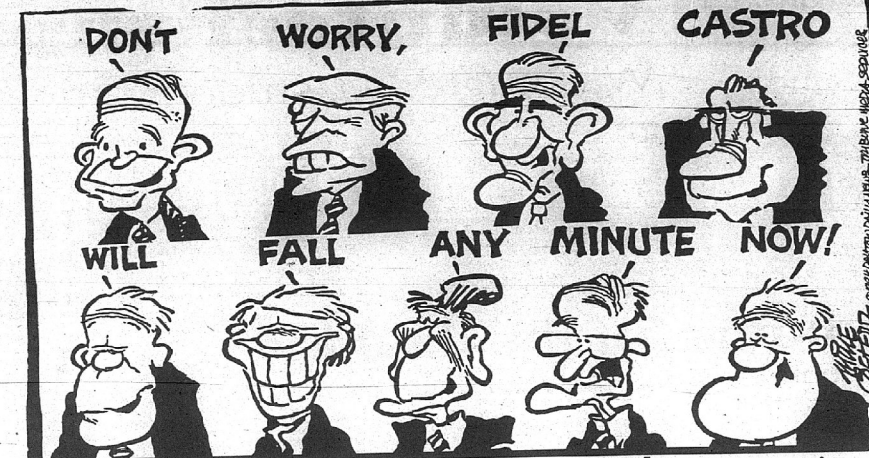

There are not enough jobs to go around and a welfare system in which spending is out of control.

You may be saying that you know that this is true but what can I, an individual do about it? We cannot expect our government to fix what is wrong with the nation. The root cause is the decline of the morals in our country. We must begin to teach our children right from wrong. We must set the example.

Crowds will visit 'city of the sun'

Mississippian Indians' five-century metropolis (A.D. 800 to 1300) will come alive again Sept. 24-25.

Many thousands of visitors from all over America will assemble to recall and celebrate its rich past.

The annual Heritage America program will bring to Madison County and the Metro East area Native Americans and the general public from across the country.

Indian tribes from the Southeast, Northeast, Great Plains and Southwest will demonstrate traditional dances, games, music, story telling, cooking and crafts.

The gathering will take place at the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site, once known as "the city of the sun," on Collinsville Road west of Collinsville.

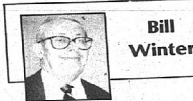

Inter-tribal dancing and music is set for 6:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. on each of the first two days as well as 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Sept. 24, and 2 to 4 p.m. on the final day, Sunday, Sept. 25.

Special performances of the Northern Shawnee Dance, the Grass Dance and the Creek Duck, Drum, Stomp and Ball dances are planned for 3 p.m. Friday, Sept. 23, and also 8 p.m. the next day.

The Children's Rabbit Dance will be performed on the second night, and the Gourd Dance and Buffalo Dance are scheduled for 1 to 2 p.m. Sept. 24 and Sept. 25.

There will be dozens of demonstrations from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sept. 24 and 25, and special performances at the Plaza Arena are set for 1 to 3 p.m. both of those days.

Bill Winter

The fall equinox sunrise will be observed at 6:30 a.m. Sept. 24 at the site's reconstructed Woodhenge circle.

Sponsors of the three-day observance are the Madison County Transit District, Illinois Arts Council Ethnic/Folk Arts, American Indian Center Arts and Education Council of Greater St. Louis, Illinois Historic Preservation Agency and Cahokia Mounds' Historic Site, Museum Society and Volunteers.

Originally containing 120 man-made earthen mounds and a network of villages in such areas as Mitchell and East St. Louis, the unique site was declared a World Heritage Site in 1982 by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The designation recognized the site's importance in interpreting the prehistory of North America.

The Illinois Historic Preservation Agency, operator/manager of the site and its Interpretive Center, has preserved remnants of the central section of the only prehistoric Indian city north of Mexico. Initially inhabited about A.D. 700 by Indians of the late Woodland culture, the site was occupied a century later by the Mississippians, who prospered by growing abundant fields of corn.

An agency spokesman says, "This stable food base, combined with hunting, fishing, and gathering wild foods, enabled them to develop a very complex community and regional hub with a highly specialized social, political and religious organization."

"What is now known as the Cahokia site, named after later inhabitants, covered six square miles. The name is derived from the Cahokia suburb of the Illini or Illinwek tribe; the Cahokian Indians arrived shortly before the French in the late 1600s.

In the site's heyday, when it was more populated than London, there were tens of thousands of Mississippian people in extensive residential sections. Houses were arranged in rows around open plazas.

"Many of the mounds have been altered or destroyed by modern farming and urban construction, but 68 are preserved within the historic site's boundaries.

"The soil was dug laboriously with tools of stone, wood and shell and was carried in baskets on people's backs to the mound construction locations."

Some of the mounds were used for burial purposes but most apparently were used for ceremonial and governmental activities.

The sun was regarded as god, and the chief was revered as the "brother of the sun."

In an August visit to the busy Cahokia Mounds Center, which features murals and a life-size mirrored diorama, 10 and visitors from a wide area were told of three walking tours.

One tour goes to the plaza and Mound 72 (a sacrificial burial mound), and another tour to the Stockade (a defensive wall) and 100-foot tall Mounds Monks (named for the French Trappist monks who gardened on the terraces in the early 1800s).

Still another tour goes to Woodhenge, where red cedar posts, lined up with the rising sun at certain times of the year, served as a calendar.

What destroyed the sophisticated civilization? The spokesmen say, "Many of the resources in the area were depleted. There were shortages of materials, and a climate change beginning in the 13th century adversely affected supplies. The population declined and, by 1500, the site had been abandoned."

While archaeologists have been busy at the site for decades, a treasure trove of land and artifacts remains to be explored.

Future findings and scientific tests seem likely to shed still more information on the rise and fall of mankind's Mississippian empire.

Celebrating contact with friend from the past

Lost. Misplaced. Gone. At this very moment, I can think of at least three items in the category: two sets of favorite earrings and an antique Limoges pillbox. I know they're around here somewhere, but where the hell did I put them? Eventually they'll turn up, proverbial badger to the rescue.

How much more disturbing when one loses a person, particularly a friend. How exhilarating when the lost is found!

Just before the Labor Day weekend, I answered a morning phone call to hear a woman ask, "Does Carol Winks Clark live at this address?" and when I responded, "This is Carol," she said, "This is Martina."

I thought who I haven't seen since the early to mid '40s and whose whereabouts I lost sometime in the late '60s or early '60s. And about whom I've wondered, intermittently, for some 30 years.

In this case, I can claim at least a part of the credit. My Jacksonville High School class is having a reunion this November in Phoenix and the classmates are organizing the affair, bearing in mind the ravages of time on the number of class members, decided to expand the get-together to include all Jville graduates who have passed the half-century mark.

In a communique from the committee earlier this summer, there was a list of old JHS grads who had responded favorably to the idea of the reunion, and among them was Martina, no address. As soon as possible, I wrote one of the committee, asking for her address.

The last time I'd heard from her she'd been living in Whittier, Calif. Shortly, received a response with a Santa Barbara address. New last name, too. So I wrote her a note, unsure that she'd even remember me after all those years.

Carol Clark

When the note elicited no response, I decided she had, indeed, forgotten me. In the course of the long phone conversation, I learned that she had misplaced it, planning to respond, and when, like my lost earrings, she failed to find it, took a chance and located me through Ma Bell, or AT&T or Ameritech—whatever.

For at least an hour, we played catch-up; quick resumes on both our parts of some of the major events of each other's lives during those lost years.

Reunions of those halcyon years when we were young and gay and the world was our oyster. When she was first in love with her Hermie and I was still fancy-free. When we were still so naive that we considered ourselves, worldly wise. Supersophisticated, worldly wise. Part of the phone conversation, I told her that I sometimes looked in the mirror and wondered what had become of that lost girl I'd once been.

"Oh, I've done the same thing," she said, "but she's still there, somewhere. I know because sometimes she surfaces and I find myself saying the wrong thing, to the wrong person. Or I do something that gets me in trouble. Mostly, I think I try to repress her. Ah, I thought, me too! But I miss her.

Because of a prior trip planned for November, I won't be seeing Martina in Arizona. On her part, she's sure that her health will allow her to attend. But we know now how to stay in touch with each other and I'm sure we'll do that. Who knows, there may be other opportunities for us to see each other again.

New friends are wonderful, but there's nothing quite like those with whom we share a history, those who can recall those same days of wine and roses.

Not, maybe those earrings and the pillbox will show up. And perhaps I'll try to locate Pat O'Connor and Art Gillespie, two other lost lambs from those same years!

After volunteering countless hours to set up computer rooms for inner-city youth, cook meals for homeless mothers and their children and help build houses for low-income families, it sounds as if Brent Sobol is prepared for sainthood.

But that is not Brent's concern. His concern is making the world a better place for everyone.

As a freshman at Washington University, where he is on full scholarship, Brent, the son of John and Charlotte Sobol of Granite City, has probably done more volunteer work than people twice or three times his age.

But, he isn't sure because he doesn't keep track of the hours he spends volunteering.

"I really don't feel I need to. I wouldn't feel right about it," he said.

Brent attended St. Louis University High School, where his ability to serve the community really took off.

"I have a desire to help people. My family has instilled that in me," he said.

In its first and second years of inception, Brent was selected a member of the SLUH Community Service Board, a student team that leads the voluntary community service programs of the school.

Through that, Brent cooked dinner for the homeless, tutored disadvantaged children, participated in birthday parties for abused children and joined in on flood clean-up.

During his last two years of high school, Brent was a student coordinator for SLUH's project to build a house in conjunction with the St. Louis Area Habitat for Humanity.

He was also selected to take trips to New Orleans and Ft. Smith, Ark., to work with Habitat for Humanity in building houses for the poor.

Other projects he participated in included taking inner-city youths to the country for recreation, the adoption of a room at Our Little Haven, a residential care center for babies born drug-exposed and HIV positive, and visits to senior citizen "shut ins."

And that's not nearly all. He taught environmental leadership at an inner-city grade school, directed neighborhood beautification and created "Northside Necktie Day," a service event that brought inner-city children together with SLUH students to make neckties of colored beads and wire.

It doesn't even stop at community service. Brent was involved in school activities such as Student Senate; he was president of the student body and senior class and co-founded the school newspaper. He was involved in TREND/SADD, Student Advisory Committee; Bridges, a group of high schools that met monthly to discuss several topics; Academic Planning Committee; the Model United Nations; and the Environmental Awareness and Action Group.

Outside of school, Brent participated in Junior Achievement, Anti-Drug Abuse Education Fund's projects, Sacred Heart Radio Program and Paragard Youth Group, a group that plans special events for youth with and without disabilities.

Brent also received counselor certification from a camp in the Shawnee National Forest and volunteered at Camp Kangaroo, a summer program sponsored by the St. Louis Zoo.

And even with all of that, Brent found time to work at the St. Louis Archdiocese at the Basilica of St. Louis. In addition to that, Brent worked for SLUH's Development and Alumni Office.

He also operated a small lawn maintenance service in the summer.

Brent has received numerous awards, including the United Way Youth Volunteer of the Year award; the Lever Brothers Corporation "Campaign Clean: Solving the Plight of the Homeless" award; the Rotary Club's high school scholarship/fellowship; a community service merit award from SLUH's president and principal; and was named to the academic honor roll and National Honor Society membership. He is presently working towards the Silver Congressional Service Award.

The Congressional award is presented to youths between 14 and 20 in recognition for commitment to voluntary public service.

Brent is in college now, enrolled at the John Olin School of Business at Washington University. Even with all of the community service and recognition plan to slow down just because he's in college.

In fact, one of the reasons Brent chose to attend Washington University was because "it has an outstanding volunteer program." He plans to continue working with Habitat for Humanity and inner city youth.

"Those two are very gratifying when you see the results. My parents have been very positive role models. I like to give that to others," he said.

Brent also plans to continue his work with SLUH and become involved with Washington University's Campus YMCA.

Over the summer, Brent became the first SLUH student to receive the Loyola Hall Scholar, a new award presented to an Illinois student excelling in leadership and service.

Brent worked for the VP Fair in construction and assisted the business manager.

"It taught me a lot about how the fair was run. It was very enjoyable, and I met a lot of people," said Brent.

Brent hopes to get a business degree in finance or sales.

"My preference is sales. The whole idea is fascinating to me," he said.

When Brent has spare time, which is apparently rare, he likes to be with his family.

"My family is probably my number one priority," he said. "I also like to travel to historic places and basically see the world."

Well, spare time or no, Brent said he wouldn't have changed a thing about his first schedule of citizenship.

"I would definitely do it all again," he said. "It gives you a really good feeling, helping people. It makes my family proud, and it's like extending my family to help. It's a lot of little things, the heartfelt appreciation you get, a smile from a child, a hug from an elderly citizen — that's what it's all about."

Kahoks return just in time for 0-3 Warriors

Football

After scoring one touchdown in its first two games, Granite City doubled its output for the season in last Friday's 25-14 loss to Belleville West. The Warriors dropped to 0-3, but made significant strides offensively against the Maroons.

"We've stressed all week that we played well against West, but you can't be satisfied because we lost," Harris said. "You have to keep improving."

"We have to go out and improve each week. That's what we've stressed from the beginning of the year. If we do that, the winning will take care of itself."

Kickers stay perfect with imperfect win, 3-0

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Warrior soccer team walked off the field Tuesday with its seventh straight victory but plenty of unfinished business after a 3-0 win at Belleville East.

If Granite City was indeed thinking ahead to its next game, it showed. The Warriors, who are scheduled to play at CBC tonight, struggled to put away the pesky Lancers despite numerous chances to break the game wide open.

SENIOR STRIKER Shawn Petroski finished off Belleville East with a pair of penalty-kick goals during the final 10 minutes of the match. The Warriors outshot the Lancers 19-4, but held a one-goal lead for much of the game.

Little The Warriors all and 4-0 in the Southwestern Conference. But they will face a far tougher test tonight at CBC. The Cadets are ranked No. 1 in the Journal Writers Poll, just ahead of the second-ranked Warriors. CBC is also ranked nationally and could rate as Granite City's most difficult test of the season.

GCHS coach Gene Baker was hoping to use Tuesday's game as a tuneup, but the Warriors spent much of the game trying to get their offense in synch.

"OUR DEAL HERE was, 'You buy your ticket to CBC,'" Baker said. "They're a great team."

Shawn Petroski scored two more goals Tuesday, giving him 11 for the season.

and we're very determined to go there and play well. We'll find out where we are against a great team."

The Warriors appeared lost at times against Belleville East, which fared well in the first half and held the visitors to one goal for much of the way. The Lancers had four shots in the first half and tested Granite City's defense on several occasions.

Matt Little got Granite City on the board at the 21:36 mark with a goal off a corner kick. Little lined up the kick in the left corner, played the ball off Petroski and drove to the net and buried a low shot past Belleville East goalkeeper Brian Herbert.

Saturday's win against Belleville West, gave GCHS some life with his fourth goal of the season. The Warriors appeared sluggish for the first 20 minutes.

"MATT LITTLE PLAYED real well again," Baker said. "We came out a little sluggish, but we did some good things. The Warriors put together several scoring opportunities in the closing minutes of the half on shots by Petroski, Corey Kessler and John Nizinski. They outshot Belleville East 10-4 in the first half but gave up two corner kicks and withstood several runs by the Lancers."

The second half, however, was all Granite City. The Warriors

Lancer hitters too much for Lady Warrior spikers

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

Although the Lady Warriors had more than enough against a tough Belleville East squad Tuesday.

The Lancers hit their way to a two-game victory in a sweltering Memorial Gymnasium. East defeated Granite City 19-13, despite a solid effort by the Lady Warriors.

WITH JENNIFER DALLAO and Lindsay Weller leading a seemingly endless supply of front-row hitters, East (9-0) dominated at the net in the first game and survived a close second game with good serving.

As for the Lady Warriors (2-2), they played a much better brand of volleyball Tuesday than they did in their home opener against Highland.

"We've come a long way on defense," coach Cindy Gagich said. "We hustled and made several good digs. East is a very good team, and they've played many more matches than we have."

"I was happy with the progress we made over the week, and we played them better in game two. Next time, the result might be different."

"Granite City is one of the better teams we have played so far, so I was happy with the results," East coach Becky McGarrity said. "I was happy with our net play, and we ran a lot of different plays that worked well. I think that kept them a little off-balance."

"YOU HAVE to cover the entire net against them," Gagich

Mascoutah beats GCHS, O'Fallon at Cardinal Creek

By Rob Raphael
Correspondent

The Warrior golf team was shot down at Scott Air Force Base on Tuesday night.

The team didn't try to fly in, but they were on hand to play Mascoutah and O'Fallon at the Cardinal Creek Golf Course, located on the base.

THE RESULTS WEREN'T good for Granite City or O'Fallon, as Mascoutah breezed to an 11-shot victory. Mascoutah finished with a 14-over-par 158 on the course's tough par-36 front nine.

Granite City was second with a 169 and O'Fallon was third at 170.

Jason Florek led Mascoutah with a 37. Josh Phillips added a 39, and Toby Lindsey and Andy Kniffin each shot a 41 to pace the Indians.

John Green led the Warriors with a 41. Ken Felt and David Martin each shot a 42 and Tim Fulkerson added a 44 for Granite City. O'Fallon was led by Todd Hancock's 37.

Warrior coach Boone Chaney said the scores were high because the course was difficult. "It's a long course, and it's a tough one," Chaney said. "I believe it's the first time all year we haven't had at least one player under 40. We're struggling a bit right now."

GRANITE CITY FELL to 2-2 in match play. After rolling through the first two weeks of the season, the Warriors have received a taste of many of the area's better teams in the last few days.

The Warriors had their unbeaten streak snapped last week against Alton. Then Saturday, Granite City finished seventh in its own invitational tournament at Arlington Heights, below such teams as Edwardsville, Collinsville and Alton, not to mention Mascoutah.

On Tuesday, the course and the absence of one of their better golfers did the Warriors in. Greg Bixler made the trip to Cardinal Creek, but didn't put comment further on that matter. But the Warriors did get another good game from Green, who Chaney said is playing his best golf of the season. Granite City also got a boost from Fulkerson, who added his senior experience to the Warrior cause.

"IT'S A GOOD thing we had Tim to help us out (Tuesday)," he did a good job," Chaney said. "Mascoutah just played a very good game, and we didn't. We sometimes struggle away from home."

The Warriors were scheduled to return home Thursday, but their opposition was not friendly. They were to play Collinsville and Alton at Arlington, two teams that should have given Granite City all it could handle. "We'll be at home, but so will Collinsville," said Chaney of the Kahoks, who also play at Arlington.

Junior Warriors unbeaten, but settle for 2 more ties

By Tony Panozzo
Staff writer

The Granite City High junior varsity soccer team remained unbeaten on the season, but added two more ties last week in games against O'Fallon and Belleville West.

The Warriors began the week Sept. 6 with a 4-0 victory over Alton. The Warriors got goals from freshman Josh Hickam, junior Justin Bernaix, junior Jared Embick and freshman Ben Starke.

JUNIOR MATT McBride assisted on Hickam's goal. Embick assisted on Bernaix's goal and freshman Dennis Holland assisted on Embick's goal. Starke's goal was unassisted.

Two goalkeepers, sophomore Alex Bausch and freshman Jeremy Smith, split the shutout.

"We pretty well dominated," Warrior JV coach Virgil Kirksey said.

The Warriors went on to dominate their next two opponents as well, but came away with two more ties to move to 4-0-3 on the season. Granite City opened the year Aug. 27 with a 1-1 tie against Peoria Richmond.

Against O'Fallon on Sept. 7, the Warriors took an early 1-0 lead when freshman Dustin Brewer scored on an assist from McBride. But the Panthers stayed in the game and scored off a corner kick with two minutes left in regulation.

KIRKSEY SAID THE Warriors had several chances to put the game away, but could not convert. Brian Meyer, a junior, had two shots rebound off the goalpost.

"When you don't put a team away, they can come back and get you," Kirksey said. "We played pretty well, but we didn't finish."

The Warriors ran into the same problem Saturday at Belleville West, when they outshot the Maroons 19-3 but came away with another 1-1 tie. Sophomore Mike Gurly scored Granite City's only goal on an assist from freshman Dane Bauer.

"In all these ties, we should have had three or four more goals and we should have won each game," Kirksey said. "They missed a lot of chances."

"They're working hard; they're just not finishing," Gurly is leading the Warriors in scoring with three goals on the season. Bernaix, Embick and Brewer each have two goals.

The Warriors played at Belleville East on Tuesday. Their next game is today at CBC.

QCSA opening day
The Quad-Cities Soccer Association will hold its annual opening day ceremony Saturday at the QCSA complex in Granite City.

All of the association's youth teams will participate in the ceremonies, which include carnival games, plenty of food and fun. The festivities will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 4 p.m.

The QCSA has 42 teams this year and more than 800 players. The association began play in 1982 and has grown into a successful organization thanks to the work of volunteers, coaches, board members and the entire soccer community in Granite City. Fundraisers have been held each year, and the association has raised enough money over the past five years to light two fields and build a million onto the existing concession stand.

The QCSA is primarily a youth organization, but there are also adult recreational leagues for men age 30 and over.

The association's future goals are to continue serving area youth, light a third field and upgrade its existing fields.

play, Justin McMillian hit the crossbar with another rocket.

McMILLIAN HELPED set up Granite City's second goal when he drew a foul in the box with 7:40 left in the game. The Warriors were awarded a penalty kick, and Petroksi converted to make it 2-0.

Petroksi struck again less than a minute later when the Lancers were whistled for another foul in the box. With 6:49 left, Jeff Hayes drew a call after going down hard on a drive to the net. Petroksi buried the shot past Herbert for his 11th goal of the season.

The two penalty kicks came late in the game after a series of hard fouls in the Lancers' end.

"There could have been a ton of those," Baker said. The Warriors outshot the Lancers 9-0 in the second half, and goalie Mike Bristol completed his third shutout of the season. But most of the Warriors were far from satisfied.

"IT WAS A bad performance," Petroksi said. "We weren't together. There was no communication or team unity. We weren't clicking.

"We didn't have our heads up. I know I didn't. There were a lot of nice runs, but that's all individual stuff."

Petroksi, Granite City's leading scorer and one of three captains on the team, said the Warriors need a quick return to form for tonight's match at CBC. "In order to win, we have to pick it up at least three notches," Petroksi said. "We're just not there right now." Tuesday's game featured an appearance by Paulie Bucherich, who saw action late in the second half and played with a brace on his right leg. Bucherich, a three-year starter, is recovering from a knee injury he suffered during the offseason. The senior midfielder nearly scored with 15:33 left in the contest, when he headed a throw-in pass from Jon Reader in front of the net. The Lancers cleared the ball away, and the score stayed 1-0.

"We wish we could have him back, but it's a very tenuous situation," Baker said. "He's an important part of our team."

Volley

and recorded four blocks. Willis had a game-high nine kills for the Warriors, including seven in game two. Stephanie Brandt was next with three, and Denise McMillan and Erica Alsop also recorded kills for Granite City.

East's serving was on-again, off-again Tuesday, but it began the first game on, as the Lancers jumped out to a 4-0 lead, forcing the Warriors to hit the ball long at times.

A COUPLE of nice digs and the serving of Willis got Granite City back in the game. But Ganschietz and Emily Darr played tall at the net to give East a 10-6 lead. Melaniece Tapp and Willis combined to block Dallas for the Warriors' seventh point, but East scored the last five to take game one.

The Lancers exploded out of the gate in game two, including two powerful kills by Dallas and two more by Weller that gave East an early 4-2 lead.

The Warrior defense scrambled for a 4-4 tie, but Ganschietz served and dinked her team back to a three-point lead at 7-4.

The point of the match took place with East leading 7-6. Granite City's defense rose to the occasion twice, scrambling to block kill attempts by Dallas and Darr. But the third try was the charm, as Amy Scheller finally beat the Lady Warrior defense with a kill that was tipped out of bounds.

THE LADY WARRIORS didn't let up, however, as their hard work forced tie scores at 10 and 12. Both teams were forcing mistakes, but with the score tied at 13, Granite made one too many as Willis' spike went wide, giving East a lead it would not relinquish.

"We have to work on cleaning up our passes," Gagich said. "We were setting up too far from the net, and you can't put the ball down from that position. Otherwise, our cohesion was good, and the chemistry was good.

"Julie (Bohnenstiel) and Erica (Alsop) really picked up our defense with great digs, and I thought we adjusted well to their offense, which varied quite a bit."

"I had many players who did well on defense tonight," McGarrity said. "If there was one thing that was not great, it would be our serving. But it wasn't bad enough to cost us the game, fortunately. We were able to put balls away at the net, and that is where we thrive the most."

Granite City has its own tournament this weekend, a first-ever invitational round-robin affair which kicks off Friday night and finishes up Saturday. Joining the Lady Warriors are Jerseyville, Freeburg, O'Fallon, Civic Memorial and Red Bud.

This image shows a blank, lined page from a notebook. The page is white with horizontal ruling lines and a vertical margin line on the left side. The page is slightly aged and shows some minor blemishes. The right edge of the page is dark, suggesting it is part of a bound volume.

A black and white photograph showing a close-up of a piece of paper with a rectangular box drawn on it. The paper is torn at the bottom edge, and a vertical strip of paper is partially detached on the right side. The background is solid black.

Horoscope

Thursday, Sept. 15
Camaraderie, friendship and teamwork are the tickets. The good word is patience. Avoid restlessness with humor — take short, frequent breaks during the day. The computers may go down, anyway. An emphasis on electronic gadgetry means more phone calls and faxes. Lots of news from a long distance and romances begun on computer networks. It's a good day for practical shopping.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Caught up in the day's action, it isn't until you're given a break in the afternoon that you can assess recent fast-breaking events and set priorities. A co-worker holds the key to your future.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). Your boss is full of bright ideas. A romance is sudden, but it seems as if it has always been part of your life. Kids are always unpredictable, and today is no exception. Keep your eyes and mind open.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Nitty-gritty financial negotiations get down to the wire — and then go awry. Laugh a lot, and problems may float away. You're in the mood for adventure, and even a short jaunt to a new place will satisfy it.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). A passing breeze may drop a windfall, a tidy sum, into your lap. Letting anger build toward a nosy relative will only increase resentment. Your charisma is increasing — others are drawn to you magnetically.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). One-to-one relationships become very close very quickly when you work together to solve a puzzle or meet an urgent situation at work. Tonight, patch up a quarrel over money with your spouse or lover.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Sept. 15). Amazing events connected with work take you into new worlds of accomplishment and learning. Through October and November, caring for others is key and the past can be cleared away. In December, family comes to visit — and an important bond is formed. Through January and February, you're full of ideas and love. Recognition and a chance to develop your own secret creative ambitions are yours.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You'll feel a bit boxed in through the morning, but the afternoon brings exciting changes, perhaps including a surprise romantic encounter. Enjoy the burst of creative energy — it lasts throughout the week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). A new job you're after is going to bring needed cash. Rewards come at home after a hard day's work. Don't talk about money with partners today — wait until next week. You may be falling in love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Your attractiveness is all you need to be a winner now. Adventure comes to find you, and you need only to be flexible and cheerful to discover the great opportunity hidden in every turn of fate.

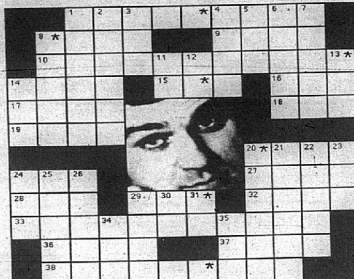

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). A light-hearted approach is key — bright ideas come in the afternoon. A stroke of inspiration helps you solve a puzzle or repair a broken electronic gadget. Good news comes by phone or through the mail.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Changes in the workplace or a restructuring of your job duties may throw you temporarily off balance, but soon, you'll be happier than ever. You have friends who defend you from a rival's undermining.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). Forget the past and extend a helping hand, and you'll win the lasting loyalty of one who has been difficult. A money matter is finalized with considerable benefit to you. Rest up — you're working hard.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Don't let yourself be taken advantage of by a friend with a strong personality. If you miss the meeting, you miss out on all the exciting news. A private wish comes true — you can hardly believe it.

Disney to pull 'Lion King' from theaters, re-release in winter

Walt Disney Co. will pull "The Lion King" from theaters Sept. 23, then unstage it again for winter holiday audiences. Company officials and entertainment analysts said the novel strategy should maximize returns from the animated feature, which already has overtaken "Aladdin" to become Disney's highest grossing film.

Disney released animated films like "The Little Mermaid," "Beauty and the Beast" and "Aladdin" at Thanksgiving. Having broken that pattern and dominated the summer season with "The Lion King," Disney now will take a second shot at those Thanksgiving and Christmas audiences.

"Disney is adapting the normal release pattern, and it's a smart idea. They'll extract more money that way," Merrill Lynch analyst Harold Vogel said.

With attendance and profits down at Disney theme parks, any extra "Lion" profits will be welcome at the Burbank-based company, Vogel noted.

"The Lion King" had grossed $232.4 million at the box office through last weekend. That compares to "Aladdin's" $217 million. Even with the winter release strategy, "The Lion King" appears to pose no threat to the all-time domestic box office champs, "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial," and "Jurassic Park," releases from Disney archival, Universal Pictures, that grossed $400 million and $342 million respectively.

"I don't see much chance 'The Lion King' will beat $300 million," Vogel said.

The movie is now in 2,355 theaters. Disney will clean the prints, prepare a new ad campaign and re-release it in about 1,500 theaters nationwide.

This year's holiday movie lineup is short on youngster-oriented fare. One competitor for "The Lion King's" audience will be Twentieth Century Fox's "Paget Brewster," starring Macaulay Culkin. The latter includes animated sequences. Fox's first steps into that arena, Disney officials estimate, "The Lion King" will yield $750 million in complete, counting licensing and consumer product sales, corporate-wide, before-tax profits could exceed $1 billion over a two-to-three-year period.

The release strategy for "The Lion King" was first reported in Daily Variety and confirmed by Terry Press, a spokeswoman for Disney's studio operations.

"It's about getting the most value out of it at the best times of year," Press said.

Literary effort raises money to help homeless

By Mary Shapiro
Staff writer

The struggles of a homeless little boy named Tummy are the foundation of a book written by two Ballwin girls who are using profits from the story to help the homeless.

Rachel Huckfeldt and Jaclyn West, both 14, wrote and illustrated "Mommy Says We're Homeless" earlier this year. Each book is hand-colored and costs $5.

Sales of the book have grossed more than $1,000. The profits are divided between St. Patrick Center and the Healthcare for the Homeless Coalition, two non-profit agencies in St. Louis that assist homeless people.

The book is available at The Recovery Room, a bookstore at 14319 Manchester Road in Manchester, or by calling St. Patrick Center at 621-1283.

Huckfeldt is a freshman at Marquette High School in the Rockwood School District. West is a freshman at Cor Jesu Academy, a private school in south St. Louis County.

Huckfeldt said she and West got the idea for the project a little more than a year ago, when they both attended Holy Infant School in Ballwin. "The idea really came from a magazine story we read about a girl who wrote a book to help save the rain forests," Huckfeldt said.

"We had already learned about the need to help the homeless in our religion class," she said. "And the truth is, we were bored one day, so we sat in Jaclyn's room and wrote all the words in a few days."

West said she thought the project would be a good way to raise money to assist homeless people.

West drew the pictures for the book. It took her couple of weeks to complete that effort.

"She's an excellent artist," Huckfeldt said. "Our original idea was that we'd color in the pictures neatly and have the whole thing color-copied. But we found out the 20-page books would have cost $20 each to be color-copied."

"So we got the copies done in black and white, and had to color in all the pictures in all the books with markers and crayons and color pencils," Huckfeldt said.

And how does the character in their story fare?

"His parents get jobs at a store and find a place to live," West said. "That ending was a little unrealistic, but we really wanted to end the story happily."

Working on the book was rewarding, Huckfeldt said.

"It makes me feel good to know we've helped somebody out there," she said.

"The only hard part was coloring all those books in," Huckfeldt said. "But we got time from our teacher in religion class for the whole class to help out on one point. We had about 50 orders for books, and each one takes about an hour to color."

Tonia Chandler, director of development and public relations at St. Patrick Center, praised the effort.

"We're grateful to have this support," Chandler said. "The girls asked at the start of the project how we'd use the money from the book."

West and Huckfeldt plan to write another book.

"But we haven't decided on the topic yet," Huckfeldt said. West added: "The best part of this was knowing we helped people like those we saw in the shelter."

"We could see that they'd get something out of our project, something to help them," she said.
